Student life in London:

London as one of the oldest capital cities in the world is one of the few cities enjoying a tourist as well as business interest in it. London is a truly multi-cultural city with people from diverse backgrounds making it their home city.

London provides superb cultural exposure. The variety of arts, theatre, performances, and other cultural venues available in London is incredible, and almost all of them provide student rates. London has some of the best museums, historical attractions, and buildings in the world and these places capitalize on the city's turbulent and varied history. From the violent past of the Tower of London to the stately grandeur of British Museum exhibits, London has much to offer.
